Kathryn Janeway

The City of Bloomington honored one of its own on October 24, 2020 — if a bit prematurely. Captain Kathryn Janeway will be born in Bloomington, Earth in 2336. But Star Trek fans couldn't wait that long to mark her future birthplace.

A group of dedicated fans unveiled a statue of Janeway on Saturday, October 24th, 2020 along the B-Line trail.

Actress Kate Mulgrew played the iconic female lead of the popular Star Trek: Voyager series, which started in 1995 and ran for seven seasons.

She joined fans virtually and promised to make the trip to see the statue in person once the pandemic ended.

Svengoolie

Okay — wipe that 2020 slate clean — we have finally made it to the New Year! We sincerely hope that we are going into better times — that will finally put social distance in the distance, and unmask us in a more positive way than the Phantom of the Opera was unmasked. We'll do our part by bringing you some movies “new to our show”, along with some old favorites and some films that we haven't run in a while. Take a look at what we kick off the year with!
